

STMicroelectronics

is looking for candidates for position:

Microcontroller Application/Support engineer

Activity profile

- Support of European (EMEA) customers developing projects with general purpose microcontrollers from STMicroelectronics (STM32, STM8)
- Customer technical support mainly by email, but also by phone and direct customer visits
- Training for our customers
- Application and product specific support for ST marketing and sales engineers
- Project development (HW/SW) for our customers
- Project Management in cooperation with our Divisions, Marketing and Sales organizations
- Analysis of customer applications and feasibility study on microcontroller requirements
- Analysis of our products in customer applications
- Benchmarks

Qualification

- Degree in Electrical Engineering or Computer Science
- Experience with development with microcontrollers (any brand is acceptable)
- Strong C programming language knowledge
- Assembly language knowledge is an advantage (ARM Cortex-M especially)
- General knowledge about electronic design
- Knowledge about ARM based microcontrollers and/or real-time operating systems is considered as a plus
- Good English language knowledge
- Openness to communicate with our international customers
- Sociability, technical skills, flexibility (European business trips)
- Clear sense of responsibility
- Knowledge of German, Italian or French languages is an advantage

We offer

- Attractive salary and wide range of corporate benefits
- Good team spirit and friendly working environment
- Great opportunity to learn new things
- Fully equipped laboratory with required high end tools

For more information and in case of interest please contact Jana Fischerová at jana.fischerova@st.com or +420 222 336 288.